Nana's parents had to go out tonight and they gave her some money to get some order in for dinner. They warned her to look after the house, not to open the door for strangers, and to remember to feed the dog. Then her parents went out. Nana was very happy because she could play video games that her mother usually doesn't let her do. While Nana was playing busily, her parents came back. They found that the dog's bowl was empty and there was no water, so they scolded Nana.
