It was forty years ago. At that time, I was a senior high school student. One day, the whole class rode bikes for travelling. When it's dusk, we arrived at a temple. We sat in front of the temple, enjoyed the scenery, and had a chat. We're all thirsty at that time. Senior high school students were too poor to buy drinks at that period. However, the temple would usually provide water and tea for the travelers. We then sent a classmate to ask for water.
