I am used to private tour, but once I went to Bali(巴厘島), and it made me feel sad. When I was out of customs, I was probably a single woman, and an independent tourist with small luggage, so they didn't spite me. However, one of my friends has faced the situation that the Customs "voluntarily" asked him for money. He was so angry that he deliberately spoke in Chinese loudly: "I don't know English. Is there someone to translate for me?" The Customs just appeared to be reluctant and let him pass.
