I was born and raised in a farming village. When I was a little kid, I had helped my dad farming in the field. I went to school for merely one year and then I quit. That's why I can read only few words. Luckily, every other child growing up in the rural area is the same.

There was a railroad track passed through our village. Each time when I saw people on the train, I envied them so much! Sometimes I would imagine where they were going to go. Even though it's a little bit embarrassing, I had to admit that all I knew was the countryside. I had never been to any other place.

At the age of 17, I got my first part-time job. I did rough work as a house builder in the village. It's also the time I learned that I could make money by working.
