Therefore, I promised my friend. I visited my friend's family on that day. When I arrived his home, I saw a quite small living room. There were some children even younger than me in the house. They should be my friend's brothers and sisters. There were only a few worn-out chairs in the living room. They invited me to sit down. After I sat down, I felt the atmosphere was a little bit unnatural. Not for long, I came to realize what was the matter.
