As a child at that time, the old man had no special feelings about the bell. He just felt it was fun. He remembered one evening, his mother walked into a neighbor's house after hearing the bell ring. His mother knew that an old man of that family was about to pass away, so she had to go to comfort the family. After the old man left the village, he missed the sound of the bell. He thought it showed the care and the concern for people with each other.
