I saw a movie at home that night. The movie seemed to explain a simple principle. That is, men can't live on lofty ideals alone. At times, we ordinary people need something delicious. The main character is a famous cook. The French banquet she prepared in the movie is not for the VIPs, but for the village folk. After seeing the movie, I couldn't help thinking of the kids in the children's center. Would anyone prepare a set of delicious food for them?
