perpetual 永久的、不停歇的

onlooker 旁觀者
