I felt that Jiang hadn't changed a bit. He was still a happy-go-lucky guy he'd always been. He told me that he hadn't gotten in touch with old friends because he's afraid that we'd pity him. But he prayed for us every night. He asked me how I've been and found out that my career was going well. He felt happy for me. From beginning to end, he didn't show an attitude of arrogance.
