Just as the dog was self-satisfied, he suddenly felt itchy. After seeing no one there but only himself, he put down the fat mouse to scratch. At this moment, the cat followed the dog-hunting method of searching for prey and took the opportunity to steal the food from the dog. The dog found the food robbed and chased it angrily. The cat quickly climbed to the tree. The dog couldn't climb up and yelled under the tree, "You are sinister; you didn't even teach me the ability to climb the tree!" The cat sneered on the tree, "You are as well mean; you didn't teach me the skill to sprint!" Since then, they have been at feud with each other. When the dog sees the cat in days to come, he will chase after him. It is like the dog tries to get the fat mouse back that was in his mouth!
