The old lady told Ben that someone had told her the operation for the previous patient took much time, so she waited for a long time and of course feared for the operation. She asked Ben why it took so much time to operate for the cataract. Ben pretended to ask nurses and of course finding nothing out; however, he came back and told the old lady that patient didn't operate for the cataract. The old lady asked Ben to put his hands on her hands, which made her feel more relieved.
