It may be normal for a driver or a passenger to be hurt by stones or something else striking through a windshield. But, how about a turtle?

An old woman was gashed on her forehead by a turtle, which was likely got knocked into the air by another vehicle during crossing the road, when driving with her daughter in Florida(佛羅里達州). Luckily, the woman was not seriously injured. The turtle also had the best of luck that it got scratched on its shell only.
